

Notes on Contributors

James Borchert received his Ph. D. in American Studies from the University of Maryland, College Park (1976). His fields include: U. S. Urban, African American, and Social History. He is Professor of History at Cleveland State University. He is author of: Alley Life in Washington (University of Illinois, 1980) and co-author of Lakewood (Donning, 1989).
E-mail

Andrea Manchester has a BA (1993) in history from McGill University, Montreal, and an MA (1995) in history from John Carroll University, University Hts., Ohio. Currently, she is working on a PhD in history (begun in 1995) at Kent State University under Dr. Barrett Beer. She has completed candidacy exams in August 1998. Her area of specialization is Tudor England.
E-mail amanches@kent.edu.

Ty M. Reese completed his Ph.D. in August 1999 at the University of Toledo under the direction of Dr. Peter Linebaugh. His dissertation, 'Toiling in the Empire: Labor in Three Anglo-Atlantic Ports, London, Philadelphia and Cape Coast Castle, 1750-1783,' was a comparative study of laborers and labor systems in three Atlantic ports within the context of the slave trade. He is currently a Visiting Assistant Professor of History at Indiana University of Pennsylvania.
E-mail treese@grove.iup.edu