MESSAGE TO THE ACADEMY

After eighteen years of requesting and editing the Message to the Academy, it seems strange to be writing it. I view this, however, not as a chore, but as an opportunity and honor. The Ohio Academy of History is a unique organization within the historical profession. As it moves into its seventieth decade of life it continues to serve the professional needs in Ohio of historians, archivists, museologists, fledgling historians, and many others in the ways that its depression era organizers intended. My goal during the coming year is to continue to build on that foundation.

The Academy through its various committees and its meetings is geared to facilitate among its members an awareness of the wide spectrum of scholarship going on in Ohio and to discuss the variety of opportunities and problems that confront the profession. The Newsletter, ably edited by Donna L. VanRaaphorst, is the primary medium through which we can communicate and inform one another. I urge all of you to read the Newsletter thoroughly and to submit to it information that would be of interest to others or that you would like to air.

The various committees function on your behalf all during the year. Some of them are basically housekeeping committees whose responsibilities are to keep the life blood of the Academy flowing. Others deal with the recognition of those who write well, teach effectively, and serve unselfishly. A third group of committees is concerned with the well-being of the profession. And finally, there is the program committee which is responsible for making the annual spring meeting, one in which as wide a range as possible of the scholarship occurring in Ohio is given a platform. The outcome of the conjunction of the committees and the executive council functioning together is an organization that benefits all within the profession.

During the coming year some major decisions concerning the profession will be made in Ohio. Those of you who heard my presidential address were alerted to these. The more immediate of the issues is that of the Ohio model social studies curriculum which is to be submitted in its final form to the state board of education by the end of the year. This curriculum will have a long-range impact on the knowledge of history that students leaving high school will have, and thus, is of vital concern to all of us. The Standards Committee and the Executive Council will review the draft carefully in the fall in the hope of influencing the final outcome. I urge all of you to let any of us on those two committees know of your ideas and suggestions.

Likewise, of continued concern to all of us in the public perception and that of state and federal authorities concerning the role and worth of higher education, and, more precisely, that of disciplines such as history that do not contribute directly to the immediate socio-economic well-being of society. We in the profession, and the Ohio Academy as its collective voice, must assert loudly and demonstrate clearly that the Bradley Commissions statement that "history is the central humanistic discipline" is demonstrably true. And, indeed, a fact that if ignored will lessen the vitality of the state and the nation.

While a tired old truism, no organization is any better than its members make it. I urge all of you to help us, your officers and committees, to keep the Academy the serviceable organization it has so long been.

The Ohio Academy of History

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL
Friday, 23 April 1993

The meeting was called to order by James Hodges, president, at Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio. Members present were C. Alexander, J. Dorn, S. Givens, J. Hodges, J. Hubbell, R. Lora, V. Steffel, and D. VanRaaphorst.

1. Minutes of 16 October 1992 Meeting
   The minutes of the Executive Council for 16 October 1992 were accepted.

2. President's Report
   J. Hodges reviewed item 6. Ad hoc Committee on Membership and item 7. Ad hoc Committee on the Future of the Ohio Academy of History covered in the Executive Council meeting of 16 October, 1992 and reported that he was in contact with D. Robson, Chair, Standards Committee, about concerns presented at the fall meeting.

3. Secretary-Treasurer's Report
   V. Steffel presented the financial statement and membership count.
4. Summer Internship Program of Ohio Association of Historical Societies and Museums

J. D. Britton, Executive Secretary, Ohio Association of Historical Societies and Museums, informed the Executive Council that the Ohio Historical Society curtailed its support of many programs because the State of Ohio had cut funding. He requested $500 from the Academy to help support a limited museum and archival internship program.

C. Alexander moved, R. Lora seconded the motion, to give $500 to the Ohio Association of Historical Societies and Museums toward supporting its summer internship program, with the proviso that the money be used to support a student from an Ohio college or university, and that this gift not be considered a precedent for annual support.

Motion passed.

5. Committee Reports

A. Program Committee

V. Steffel, on behalf of A. Kerr, Chair, reported that there had been statements that the program had been limited to sessions on American history. The consensus of the Executive Council was that the program was very good; there were five clearly European sessions.

J. Dorn recalled an earlier charge to Program Committees to hustle to create balance among the sessions.

J. Hubbell suggested 1) an experiment with a plenary session at 11:00 a.m. around a large topic, or 2) limit the second round of sessions to three instead of six.

C. Alexander proposed getting more prominent members on the program, though it would be difficult to implement. D. VanRaaphorst recommended senior scholars as commentators. J. Hubbell noted that this would work to the disadvantage of young scholars.

It was noted that last year with a Friday evening program about 90 to 100 were present; this year only about 30 were expected for the Friday reception. J. Hubbell recommended a Friday evening program. It was especially important if the annual meeting was not held in Columbus. The rule of thumb should be to have Friday meetings.

B. Standards Committee

J. Hodges reminded the Executive Council of the Standards Committee recommendation to provide free membership to History Day winners and their faculty advisors. It was assumed that History Day coordinators would provide the necessary information.

C. Teaching Committee

V. Steffel communicated a comment from D. Kyvig, Chair, that in the future years, statements of teaching philosophy should be requested from nominees. Kyvig committee found such a statement very helpful.

6. Fall 1994 Meeting

The responsibility for identifying a host for the fall 1994 meeting was the responsibility of the new vice president. The question of whether to continue meeting at historical museums was raised. The consensus was that we should continue to do so.

7. Spring 1994 Meeting

Otterbein College has expressed interest in hosting this meeting.

8. Other Business

A. Naming of Awards

C. Alexander re-raised the question whether it would be appropriate to name the three awards [publication, service, and teaching] after eminent members of the Academy, deceased or alive, who had served the Academy long and faithfully.

The discussion raised a number of issues such as providing a stipend and not stepping on toes. The question of a monetary award was discussed.

During the discussion, D. VanRaaphorst recommended creating a named award for the best dissertation produced in Ohio, maybe with a stipend. J. Hubbell suggested an award for the best published article by a graduate student.

S. Givens said that the question should be pursued and that it was necessary to get a wider range of opinion.

B. New Brochure

J. Hodges reported that he would continue working with J. Hubbell on designing a new brochure.

C. Ohio Model Curriculum for Social Sciences

D. VanRaaphorst asked whether the Academy had a position on the new State social studies curriculum. The ensuing debate revealed that historians on the Ohio Model Curriculum Committee were concerned about the proposed State social studies requirements. It seemed that there might be a significant de-emphasis of history in the State's social studies curriculum.

D. VanRaaphorst moved, J. Hodges seconded, the resolution: The Executive Council of the Ohio Academy of History expresses its concern about the direction of the Model Curriculum Committee which is currently considering curriculum goals and changes for Ohio public schools. The suggested curricula apparently discards accepted and proven real history courses in favor of vague "skills" that might result in generations of students who have no concrete sense of the past as it actually occurred in time. We authorize the incoming president, Stuart Givens, to pursue these concerns and to communicate to the proper persons our hope that history as history survives in the public schools of Ohio.

The resolution was approved by unanimous consent.
D. Ohio Newspaper Project

S. Givens, Academy liaison with the Ohio Newspaper Project, asked that the Academy endorse the last grant proposal for the Ohio Newspaper Project. The Council unanimously agreed to support the request.

E. Service to the Academy

J. Dorn expressed his pleasure to serve and continue to serve the Academy. Similar expressions were made by C. Alexander and J. Hubbell.

9. Adjournment

The meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully submitted,

Vladimir Steffel
Secretary-Treasurer

ADDENDUM

The following report arrived after the Spring Conference.

Report of the Standards Committee

OHIO ACADEMY OF HISTORY
Report of the Standards Committee

I. Committee Job Description

Pursuant to the Constitution of the Ohio Academy of History, Article VI, Section 5, it is the role of the Standards Committee to monitor the history profession and history teaching in this state, to ascertain, evaluate, receive complaints about, and investigate its standards, particularly, but not solely, with respect to its methods and procedures, qualifications, working conditions, and salaries. The committee shall from time to time report its findings and recommendations to the President, Executive Council, and membership of the Academy.

II. Findings and Recommendations

A. Model Curriculum for Social Studies in the State of Ohio

The process of constructing this model curriculum which, when adopted by the State Board of Education, will structure history education in the public schools (K-12), has been under way for over a year. The implications of this model curriculum are enormous: it will determine the content of history education for graduates of Ohio's public schools, many of whom go on to join the student population of Ohio's colleges; it will affect, at least indirectly, the history content of the curriculum necessary for certification to be primary or secondary teachers in Ohio's schools. Simply put, for those of our members who are teachers, the model curriculum will greatly influence what it will be appropriate and possible to teach our students. To date, the Ohio Academy of History has taken no role in the process of constructing this curriculum.

The committee recommends that the Academy take an advisory role in the curriculum construction process. Sometime this Fall, a draft of the proposed model curriculum will become available as a public document. At that time, the Executive Council should obtain copies of the proposal, should review it, and should make recommendations in light of the Council's expertise and interest in the teaching of history in the schools. Further, the Council should publish or distribute the draft proposal to the membership so that it may comment individually to appropriate officials. Finally, should public hearings be held on the proposed curriculum, the President of the Academy or his representative should make the Academy's official position known.

B. The History Curriculum Requirements for Teacher Training Programs at Ohio's Colleges and Universities.

Currently, the State of Ohio mandates curriculum content standards for those people pursuing teacher certification through college or university degree programs in Ohio. The state is considering a change from a certification process to a licensure process. The implications of this change for curriculum content are not yet clear, but the issue will be of concern to the Academy, for it will affect the teaching of history throughout the educational system in the state. It therefore needs to be investigated by the Academy, through the Standards Committee.

The committee recommends that to establish a base of knowledge with respect to the history content of relevant certification programs (K-8, secondary-history, and secondary-comprehensive social studies), it be authorized to conduct a survey of the curricula for these programs at Ohio colleges and universities offering them, and to report its findings to the Academy.

The survey can be undertaken through the following mechanism. The latest catalogs of all colleges and universities offering such programs can be accessed, their requirements ascertained and compiled. An analysis can be prepared, noting norms and substantial deviations. Data compilation can be undertaken by a work-study student under the supervision of a member of the Standards Committee; the Committee will write the analysis. The Committee requests an appropriation of $200.00 to pay for data collection (the sum would pay for approximately 60 hours of work-study time). If commissioned, the survey can be completed in time for presentation to the Council at the Fall meeting of 1993.

Respectfully submitted,

David W. Robson
Chairman. Standards Committee
1. Welcome
James Hodges introduced Wittenberg University's President William Kinnison. President Kinnison graciously welcomed the Academy's members.

2. Secretary-Treasurer's Report
Vladimir Steffel thanked the Local Arrangements Committee and Wittenberg University for hosting the Annual Meeting. He also remembered the chairs and members of the standing committee for their service during the past year. He reported that the Executive Council had agreed to support financially the summer internship programs of Ohio Association of Historical Societies and Museums.

3. Nominating Committee
Christine Worobec, Chair, placed in nomination Donald Schilling for president elect/vice president; Vladimir Steffel for Secretary-Treasurer; Donna L. VanRaaphorst for editor, Newsletter; and James Borchert, Richard McMaster, Constance Bouchard, and Sharon Bannister for the Executive Council. There were no nominations from the floor.

4. Teaching Award
David Kyvig, Chair, presented the Award for Excellence in Teaching to Andrew L. Cayton, Miami. Kyvig quoted one colleague who wrote:

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about Cayton's ability is that it extends over various formats. Some teachers are gifted before a large crowd, but the control one exercises in lecturing does not work in a seminar; others have the interactive skill for getting small groups engaged in important issues but lack the organizational and dramatic knack of effective lectern performance. Cayton seems to be equally gifted in all facets of our craft.

He also quoted Cayton's statement of philosophy:
Teaching is the most important thing I do. I like being in the classroom and I enjoy preparing to teach. . . . My ultimate goals in all my classes are to provoke students to think for themselves and to introduce them to the ways in which historians try to think for themselves. I want to spark some interest in history, which students may want to pursue themselves at some later date. I want to challenge them, force them to question the assumptions about history they usually bring to a college class. I want them to see the wide range of possibilities that exist in trying to make sense of the past. And I care less about what they believe than that they know why they believe what they do. The best way I have found to stimulate students to these ends is to model the behavior I want them to adopt. In other words, I try to lecture as a person wondering, thinking, groping toward some sense of the past with the methods and information available to professional historians, rather than as an oracle of wisdom and knowledge.

5. Distinguished Service Award
James Burke, chair, presented Joseph Lynch, Ohio State, the Distinguished Service Award. Instead of reading a long list of Lynch's accomplishments, the following excerpt best summarizes his contributions:

The recipient of this year's award has made major contributions to the history profession in so many different areas. This person is representative of the many people who work in more quiet, yet important and effective ways to ensure the success of the many organizations. Our selection this year has worked this way for the Ohio Academy of History by serving in a variety of capacities for our organization.

6. Outstanding Book Award
Roberta Alexander, chair, awarded Raymond Dominick, Ohio State, Mansfield, the Outstanding Book Award for his study, The Environmental Movement in Germany: Prophets and Pioneers, 1871-1971. The following excerpt summarizes the study:

[This is] the first systematic study of German environmentalism. Using a wide range of published and archival sources as well as oral histories, Dominick convincingly proves that Germany's environmental movement did not begin with the emergence of the Green Party of the 1970s. Rather, an active environmental movement has existed in Germany for more than a century. Analyzing the political and socio-economic constituencies of the movement throughout its first century, The Environmental Movement in Germany demonstrates that nature found determined defenders among persons whose political standpoints ranged from conservative to socialist and whose social standing ranged from the Kaiser to the factory worker.

7. Report from Nominating Committee
Christine Worobec reported the results of the election: Donald Schilling was elected president elect/vice president; Vladimir Steffel was elected secretary-treasurer; Donna L. VanRaaphorst was elected editor of the Newsletter; Constance Bouchard and Sharon Bannister were elected to the Executive Council.

8. Presidential Address
Stuart Givens' Presidential Address, "Does the Past Have a Future or Even a Place?", focused on the State of Ohio's commitment to history at the secondary and university levels. Givens said that:

"While the outcome of [specialization] has been better history, both written and taught, it has been at a price—a decreased concern about the teaching of history at the secondary education level and a seeming retreat further into the Ivory Tower."

He reviewed the general concern about the decline of importance of teaching history at the secondary level and the state's emphasis on science and technology. He concluded:

"We must be prepared to prove to the governor, the Board of Regents, our own trustees, and the 75% of the public that is skeptical, that both higher education is important and worth the cost and that the Bradley Commission was correct when it asserted that "History is the central humanistic discipline." We must make clear that history does have a future and a place in any civilized society."

9. Adjournment James Hodges adjourned the meeting.

MESSAGE TO MEMBERSHIP
The vitality of the Academy rests in its members and the various committees. For the organization to flourish, these committees need membership input. This is especially true for the following, which earnestly solicit your aid:

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARD. Please send nominations for the Distinguished Service Award or requests for information to Dwight Smith, History Department, Miami University, Oxford, Ohio 45056-1642 by December 1, 1993.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE. Kindly send nominations for President Elect, Secretary-Treasurer, and two Council seats to Jacob Dorn, History Department, Wright State University, Dayton, Ohio 45435. The deadline for submissions is November 24, 1993.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE. A call for either individual or session proposals is issued with a November 3, 1993 deadline. Send proposals or inquiries to John Kesler, History Department, Lakeland Community College, 7700 Clocktower Drive, Mentor, Ohio 44060-7595.

PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE. Books may be nominated by any member of the Ohio Academy of History, postmarked no later than December 1, 1993. The committee will favor a well-crafted, well-written monograph dealing with a significant topic and based on extensive research in primary sources. The committee will also consider a well-written synthesis that is based largely on secondary sources but provides an interesting and original way of understanding the past. The committee will not consider books that are basically edited works or intended primarily as classroom materials. To make a nomination, the nominator or author must send one copy of the book to each of the four members of the committee. Nominations, together with a brief (50-75 word) synopsis of the book for publication in the Academy's Newsletter, must reach committee members by December 1, 1993. Books should be sent to the following: Bernard Sternsher, Department of History, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio 43403-0220; Erving Beauregard, Department of History, University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio 45469-0001; Michael Grossberg, Department of History, Case Western Reserve University, Mather House, Cleveland, Ohio 44106-7101; and Albert Hayden, Department of History, Wittenberg University, Box 720, Springfield, Ohio 45501-0720.

TEACHING AWARD. For complete information concerning this award, please contact Ronald Lora, Department of History, the University of Toledo, Toledo, Ohio 43606-3390 by January 10, 1994.

EDITOR'S NOTES
As I begin my second year as the editor of the Ohio Academy of History Newsletter, I wish to thank all of you who bore with me, as Vladimir Steffel called it, my trial year. Hopefully the kinks of typesetting, printing, and mailing have been ironed out and will make for an easier year.

I am heartened by the strong stand taken by the Standard's Committee, so ably chaired by David Robson of John Carroll University, and the Academy on the Ohio Model Social Studies Curriculum. In this regard, I am delighted that Elaine Wrisley Reed was asked, and agreed to serve on the Academy's Standard's Committee effective to 1995.

It is rewarding to note the favorable reception given to the column begun last fall devoted to archives in Ohio. I've received many favorable comments and much helpful information from an increasing number of these invaluable facilities. In so doing, as with the editing of the Newsletter, I've had occasion to meet (at least through the mails) some delightful people. A wonderful example is Dr. Jacob R. Marcus, Director of the American Jewish Archives located in Cincinnati, Ohio. Dr. Marcus and I have corresponded over the past year and he most generously supplied me with a wealth of material to be used in this edition. I hope to meet him when I am next in Cincinnati.

RETIEMENTS

BOWLING GREEN STATE UNIVERSITY

DR. LAWRENCE J. FRIEDMAN retired after 22 years at BGSU. His field of concentration was American Intellectual and Cultural History and History of American Philanthropy. He was awarded the Distinguished University Professor Award in 1991. Dr. Friedman had written four books: Menninger: The Family and the Clinic; Gregarious Saints: Self and Community in American Abolitionism, 1830-1870; Inventors of the Promised Land; and The White Savage: Racial Fantasies in the Postbellum South. At this time Dr. Friedman is researching material for a biography on the life of Erik Erikson. Dr. Friedman has taken a position in the History Department at Indiana University, Bloomington.

DR. JAMES Q. GRAHAM, JR. has retired after 33 years at BGSU. He has written French Legislators, 1871-1940: Biographical Data; Project Heritage: Wood County, Ohio, Index of the 1860 Federal Manuscript Census, Machine-readable Data Edition (co-author); Quantitative History: Selected Readings in the Quantitative Analysis of Historical Data (co-author); and "Historical Analysis of Violence: Problems in Theory and Data," in Arthur G. Neal, ed., Violence in Animal and Human Societies. Dr. Graham was managing editor of Social Science History Journal, from 1976-1989. Dr. Graham served as an official representative to the Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR) for 26 years and is currently finishing a term as a member of the Council. He will teach Fall Semester under BGSU's supplemental teaching program. Dr. Graham will be moving to Port Angeles, Washington in December.

DR. DAVID C. ROLLER has retired after 29 years at BGSU. His research interests were Political, Economic and Intellectual History of the late 19th and early 20th century American South, and the history of the Republican Party of North Carolina from Reconstruction through World War I. He is best known for The Encyclopedia of Southern History, co-authored and edited with R. W. Twyman. The Encyclopedia was selected by Choice in 1980 for the list of "best books." He also has written "Theodore Roosevelt, Popular Images of American books. Presidents," (William C. Spragens, ed.), Greenwood Press; and "Distilling," and "Dixie," Dictionary of American History. Dr. Roller spent 1989-90 in China at the Xi'an Foreign Language Institute. Dr. Roller will teach Fall Semester under BGSU's Supplemental Teaching Program.

CLEVELAND STATE UNIVERSITY

THOMAS F. CAMPBELL retired this past June from teaching at Cleveland State University, thus ending an academic career of 30 years. While perhaps best known for his classes on Cleveland, Ohio and Urban history, Dr. Campbell was also a driving force behind the formation of the College of Urban Affairs holding the Directorship of the Institute of Urban Studies from 1969-1975. Professor Campbell also served as President of the City Club from 1970-71, and unsuccessfully emulated his historical hero, Tom L. Johnson, by running for mayor of Cleveland in 1977. Affectionately referred to within the department as "Mr. Cleveland", Campbell's reputation as an authority on Cleveland, (whatever the subject), can be attested to by the countless media interviews and publication requests.
Retirement for Dr. Campbell contradicts the definition given by Webster, and is a redirection of his personal interests. Having helped in the recent acquisition of a grant from the Irish American Cultural Institute with the Western Reserve Historical Society, he is hard at work at this new and exciting project.

JOHN CARROLL UNIVERSITY
HARRY F. LUPOLD has retired as Adjunct Professor, effective fall, 1993. Harry taught for many years at Lakeland Community College before coming to John Carroll and served as past president of the Academy.

KENT STATE UNIVERSITY
LAWRENCE S. KAPLAN, University Professor, retired July 1, 1993. Awarded the B.A. by Colby College and the M.A. and Ph.D. by Yale, Kaplan joined the Kent faculty in 1954. He is an internationally-recognized scholar of the diplomacy of the early Republic and the history of NATO and European security issues. Widely published, Kaplan has been president of the Society for Historians of American Foreign Relations, the Society for Historians of the Early American Republic, and the Ohio Academy of History which awarded him its Distinguished Teaching Award in 1981.

AUGUST MEIER, University Professor, retired June 1, 1993. Awarded the B.A. by Oberlin College and the M.A. and Ph.D. by Columbia, Meier joined the Kent faculty in 1967 following teaching at Tougaloo, Fisk, Morgan State and Roosevelt. An internationally renowned scholar of African American history, Meier has published numerous books and articles in the field. He was Chair of the Organization of American Historians Program Committee for the 1990 meeting and was president of the Southern Historical Association in 1992.

OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
Associate Professor MICHAEL W. CURRAN has been at Ohio State for twenty-nine years. He has served as Acting Dean of the College of Humanities, Assistant Provost, Dean of University College, and has recently completed a term as Director of the Study Abroad Office in International Affairs. He has taught Russian and Soviet history in the Department of History and is well known as co-author of A History of Russia and the Soviet Union, now in its fourth edition.

UNIVERSITY OF AKRON
Associate Professor Howard Reinmuth has retired. He joined the faculty at Akron in 1966 after having taught at the University of Utah. A specialist in 17th century English history, he edited Early Stuart Studies: Essays in Honor of David Harris Willson (1970), and published articles in The Historical Journal, Recusant History, and Transactions of the Cumberland & Westmorland Society. Reinmuth was a leader in the creation of the Canadian Studies program at Akron, and in 1983-1984 was the recipient of a Canadian Studies Faculty Enrichment Grant. He participated in the Quebec Summer Seminar in 1987. Reinmuth received his B.A., M.A., Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota, and he also pursued graduate studies at Yale University and the University of London.

UNIVERSITY OF TOLEDO
Professor RICHARD BOYER, a specialist in British History, took early retirement in June, 1993. Professor Boyer will, however, teach one quarter per academic year on the University's early retirement program.

WRIGHT STATE UNIVERSITY
CHARLES BERRY has retired. A graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, Professor Berry has taught at the University of Louisville and, since 1971, at Wright State University. He is the author of The Reform of Oaxaca, 1855-1876: A Microhistory of the Liberal Revolution as well as numerous articles in Mexican history. Professor Berry has also been the driving force behind the establishment of the Survivors of the Holocaust Oral History Project at Wright State University.

ANDREW SPIEGEL retired in March 1993. Professor Spiegel has a doctorate in German history from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, and a law degree from the University of Michigan Law School. He taught at C.W. Post College in Long Island, New York, and eventually became dean and chief administrative officer. In 1970, he became provost at Wright State University and served in that position until 1979. In 1985, he was briefly dean of College of Business at Central State University. In 1979, he joined the History Department at Wright State University.

DEATHS
EUGENE CONVERSE MURDOCK, Andrew U. Thomas Professor of History Emeritus and College Historian at Marietta College, died on July 23, 1992, at Marietta Memorial Hospital, after a long struggle against cancer. Born on April 30, 1921, at Lakewood, Ohio, the son of Stanley H. and Elizabeth Carter Murdock, he graduated from the College of Wooster in 1942, then spent nearly four years in the U.S. army, including eighteen months in Europe with the 69th Infantry Division Mentored by Allan Nevins, he received M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia University before joining the faculty at Rio Grande College in 1952. Four years later he came to Marietta College, where he taught until his retirement in 1986. For fourteen years he served as department chair.

A lifelong follower of the fortunes and misfortunes of the Cleveland Indians and an avid collector of baseball memorabilia, Murdock also enthusiastically promoted intercollegiate athletics, chairing Marietta College's athletic committee, serving as its faculty representative to the Ohio Athletic Conference, and working as official scorer for the Division III championship tournament. He was an original admittance, Marietta College's Athletic Hall of Fame.

Despite a heavy teaching load and his numerous official responsibilities, Murdock somehow found time to publish prolifically. Four of his ten books—Ohio's Civil War Bounty System (Ohio State, 1963), Patriotism Limited (Kent State, 1967), One Million Men: The Civil War Draft in the North (State Historical Society of Wisconsin, 1971), and The Civil War in the North: A Selective Annotated Bibliography (Garland, 1987)—resulted from his original scholarly interests. Over the last twenty years of his life, he increasingly concentrated his efforts in American baseball history, and in fact a pioneer academician in that field. A founding

SYMPOSIA, WORKSHOPS, AND EXHIBITS

The American Studies Program at Case Western Reserve University will host the eighth annual Western Reserve Studies Symposium, Friday and Saturday, October 8 and 9. This year's theme is The Western Reserve in the Gilded Age: Moguls, Monuments and other Manifestations. The symposium will be held in newly-restored Adelbert Hall, 2040 Adelbert Road on the CWRU campus.

The symposium will focus on the Western Reserve during the "gilded age" of 1876 to 1914. The keynote address will be given by Patricia O'Toole, a social historian and author of The Five of Hearts, a biography of Henry and Clover Adams, John and Clara Stone Hay, and Clarence King. O'Toole's speech will focus on Andrew Carnegie and other industrial giants whose generosity extended into the Cleveland community. O'Toole is a past contributor to The New York Times and Lear's. Scholars from the Western Reserve area, along with former Cleveland mayor Dennis Kucinich, will make presentations and lead discussions examining the area's architecture, development, and inhabitants.

The symposium is further supported by the Great Lakes American Studies Association, Western Reserve Architectural Historians, and the History of Technology and Science Program at CWRU.

A registration fee of $25 ($15 for students with ID) covers attendance at all sessions, the publication of papers and abstracts, parking in CWRU visitor lots, and a tour of Adelbert Hall. To register, call CWRU's Office of American Studies at 368-4117 before September 20. Contact: Jennifer Bibb for additional information at (216) 368-3688.

The Afro-American Museum and Cultural Center will feature the following exhibitions:

- September - October 10, 1993
  "Lest We Forget: Images of the Black Civil Rights Movement" by Robert Templeton - Opening to be announced
  Reception - Sunday, October 24, 2 pm
  Contact: Debbie Marable Clements, P.O. Box 578, 1350 Brush Row Road, Wilberforce, Ohio 45894, (513) 376-9444 for additional information.
The Society of Ohio Archivists will hold its Fall 1993 meeting on September 30 and October 1 at Lakeland Community College in Mentor, Ohio. The event is sponsored through the Community Education Division and the college. Workshops, sessions, and tours have been planned to cover a variety of archival, records management, and historical interests.

Ohio State University Archivist Raimond Goeler and Sinclair Community College Records Manager Gillian Hill will present a workshop on "Records Management for Colleges and Universities" while Dr. David Mould of Ohio University will present a workshop on "Oral History Interviewing."

Sessions include "Public Records Law in Ohio: Approaching the 21st Century?" presented jointly by records specialists and legislators; "Documenting African-American Labor History" featuring the film "Struggles in Steel: A Visual History of African-American Steelworkers," and, "Contemporary Issues in Archival Collections" with presenters from the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, National Afro-American Museum, and the Gay/Lesbian Archives of the Western Reserve Historical Society. "What is This History Business: Careers in the Historical Profession" addresses the frequently heard student lament, "I love history but what can I do besides teach it?" by presenting the experiences of professionals from various types of archives and employment alternatives. "Mining the Resources of Women's History" will explore the various records of women's history available in repositories in the Western Reserve region, including the archives of University Hospital and Case Western Reserve University. On a more local vein, Executive Director of the Lake County Historical Society Joan Kapsch will present a slide lecture on the gentlemen farmers, country estates, and economic growth of Lake County. This will be followed by a box lunch at Mooreland Mansion, one of the county's country estates, and a tour of this historic home as it undergoes historical restoration. Brochures will be available in late August. Contact Bari Oyer Stith, Geauga County Archivist, 231 Main Street, Chardon, Ohio 44024-1299, (216) 285-2222, ext. 276 for additional information.

The following exhibitions on display at the Cleveland Museum of Art are of possible interest to historians:

Intimate Images: Portrait Miniatures from Europe and America, through Oct 17, 1993.

Resist-Dyed Textiles of India, Indonesia, and Cambodia, through 1993.

ARCHIVIST CORNER

American Jewish Archives
3101 Clifton Avenue
Cincinnati, Ohio 45220

The American Jewish Archives was authorized in 1947 by Dr. Nelson Gluech, President of the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati. Professor Jacob Rader Marcus was appointed as its first and only director to date. The establishment of the Archives occurred in the aftermath of World War II, when the enormity of the Holocaust was still not fully comprehended by the American Jewish community. Thus the Jewish people of the United States were confronted with the foremost responsibility of preserving the continuity of a way of life and learning. In its original year, the Archives housed a small assortment of congregational and societal minute books along with a few collections of private papers including Rabbis Gotthard Deutsch, David Philipson, and Mordecia M. Kaplan. Today the faculty houses over eight million pages of documentation. It contains 4,500 linear feet of manuscripts and records. The microfilm collections encompasses over 3,000 reels, including copies of the papers of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Zionion leader Chain Weizmann, Supreme Court of the United States Justice Louis D. Brandies, and the records of the Socialist Labor Party of America.

Holdings such as the foregoing are further complimented by a large collection of newspaper and magazine clippings, leaflets, pamphlets, brochures, and organizational news releases that are divided into three categories: biography; special topics and institutions, and geography. Also important is the "Nearprint" collection because it reflects the day-to-day development of American Jewish life in the mid-and late-twentieth century. It is a gold mine for scholars because it contains data not available in any of the other collections.

The Archives also houses a tape recording collection consisting of over 2,000 cassettes of oral histories, lectures, music, and religious services. There is also a phonograph collection of over 10,000 items A growing genealogy collection exists as well. The records of the New York office of the World Jewish Congress represent, very likely, the most significant of the Archives’ new acquisitions. This collection comprises approximately 2,000,000 pages and they have made the facility a major center for the study of the Holocaust and post World War II European Jewry. These records document the efforts of the World Jewish Congress to warn the world of Nazi Germany’s “final solution” and to save the lives of the Jews inside Nazi-occupied Europe. The collection contains lists of survivors and records of post-war efforts to relocate them. There are, in addition, clippings from the Nazi press and other European newspapers, providing a first hand account of the events of the war as they happened.

The Archives publishes a semi-annual journal, America Jewish Archives. A substantial number of books, pamphlets, monographs, and brochures have also been forthcoming from the Archives. To serve the community, two guides on holdings, a seven-volume Manuscript Catalogue of the American Jewish Archives and a one-volume Guide to the Holdings of the American Jewish Archives are available. Contact: Dr. Abraham J. Peck at (513) 221-1875 - FAX (513) 221-7812 or write to the address listed above for further information.

AROUND AND ABOUT THE PROFESSION

The History Department of Bowling Green State University sponsored a 1993 summer workshop (June 21-June 25, 1993) through Continuing Education entitled Great Revolutions. Instructors were Dr. David Skaggs, Coordinator/American Revolution; Dr. James Graham/French Revo lation; Mr. Philip Skaggs/Russian Revolution; Dr. Fujiya Kawashima/Chinese Revolution; and Ms. Mara Pinto Oess/Teacher-Facilitator.

The Department also sponsored the seventh annual Professional Day- a day-long series of "refresher" workshops for secondary school social studies teachers-on Friday, April 3, 1993. There were 72 people in attendance. The following sessions were held: African American History; Latin America; Computers & Historical Research; American Indians; and Russia.

Lee A. Makela of Cleveland State University, was involved at the Cleveland Museum of Art for two weeks during the early part of August in programs focusing on "Themes in Japanese Culture," and another on "Themes in Japanese Literature."

This Fall Quarter the Cleveland State University History Department will offer the following two new courses:

HIS 271 Contemporary China in Historical Perspective

An assessment of Contemporary Chinese civilization from the perspective of historical influences on the philosophies, institutions and values of modern society and culture.

HIS 314/514 - Introduction to American Studies

In this course, Thomas Hartshorne will explore the methods, materials and approaches of American Studies. Among the subjects to be considered are Literature, music, theater and film.

The Cincinnati Seminar on the City, sponsored jointly by the Department of History and the center for Neighborhood and Community Studies, University of Cincinnati, and the Cincinnati Historical Society, enters its second year in the fall of 1993. This year the seminar may be taken for graduate credit, one hour of credit assigned to the autumn, winter, and spring quarters. Chaired this season by Professor Roger Daniels, the seminar will present eight speakers. For further information, call Geoffrey Giglierano, Cincinnati Historical Society, (513) 287-7093. The Speakers include:

Oct. 13, 1993 - Rudolph Vecoli, University of Minnesota, "Immigrants and Ethnicity in the American City."

The Women Historians of Greater Cleveland will sponsor, in conjunction with the Department of History at John Carroll University, the third annual celebration of Women's History Month for the northern Ohio area. The conference theme will be Women in Conflict. The confirmed date is March 11, 1994. Paper proposals from M.A. and Ph.D. students from around the state are encouraged. Proposals from established scholars are also welcomed. Proposals should not exceed two double spaced pages and should be sent to Mary Kay Howard, Ph.D., Program Director, Department of History, John Carroll University, University Heights, Ohio 44118. Deadline for submission is December 15, 1993, along with a current cv.

The Conference on Faith and History seeks papers for its biennial fall meeting to be held October 6-8, 1994, at Messiah College in Grantham, Pennsylvania. Proposals on topics related to the theme "Religion in Its Social Context" should be sent before March 1, 1994 to Jacob H. Dorn, Department of History, Wright State University, Dayton, OH 45435.

The Ohio Newspaper Project continues to fulfill its mission of newspaper preservation throughout the state. The statistics for this period show considerable activity in all areas with work nearing completion in the northern regions.
Major collections at the Western Reserve Historical Society, the Ross County Historical Society, and the Hayes Presidential Center were opened to the project, providing access to titles from many different counties in Ohio.

All staff actively participated in the necessary fieldwork. The processing and filming of papers has proceeded ahead on schedule, although some places remain reluctant to loan out their files.

Purchase of the present duplicator and a new microcomputer work station were possible because the overall project budget remains in the black. The project staff engaged in their various outreach activities. These individuals include Bobbie Kirby (a library science intern from Ohio Dominican College), Jim Shannon, Diana Patterson, and Jill Edwards. Jim and Marge Haberman attended the USNP annual meeting in Washington, bringing back valuable tips and interesting news. Jim and Marge also provided information to the Ohio Humanities Council for a traveling exhibit and series of programs on newspapers in the local community.

This last endeavor was facilitated by Frank Deane, director of the Ohio Newspaper Association, and an advisor to both ONP and OHHC. The project's advisory committee, along with directors of the Ohio network centers, met in April to review the work plan and title selections for the final ONP grant proposal to NEH. The project is requesting $654,991 over three years to complete work in the Akron, Cincinnati, Columbus, and Youngstown regions as well as issue a statewide union list of newspapers.
